EVIDENCE ROUSES HOUSE MEMBERS

Demand Cancellation of Navy Oil Reserve Leases.

SOLONS EXPRESS OPINIONS

Representatives Graham, Sanders, Begg, Garner and Others Denounce the Transactions and Demand the Cancellation of Leases—Majority Would Vote, It Is Claimed, to Turn Property Back to Government.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Evidence in connection with the leasing of the Teapot Dome and California navy oil reserves has aroused members of the house and indications are that a big majority will vote for any measure to cancel the contracts.

Two members of the Republican steering committee, Graham of Illinois and Sanders of Indiana, denounced the transactions and demanded cancellation of the leases. Representative Graham said:

"I think these leases should be canceled forthwith. Whether or not any guilt actually attaches to the parties involved, and on that I want to hold my opinion in abeyance, the facts surrounding the situation are such as to make it quite evident that good public morals and sound public policy require that the properties be recovered.

"In the first place they ought never to have been leased. This oil ought to have been kept for the use of the navy and the nation. If the facts thus far produced are as shown by newspaper accounts of the hearings, they are more than sufficient to create in any reasonable man's mind something more than a mere suspicion that everything was not as it should have been in the making of these leases."

Representative Sanders declared: "I think the leases most assuredly should be canceled. It looks to me that they were procured corruptly."

Representative Garner of Texas, second in command of the Democratic side of the house, intimated that more sensational, involving further important personages, are coming in the investigation. He said: "These leases undoubtedly ought to be canceled. There has been enough political oil spilled through this scandal to burn up a large part of the country."

Representative Begg of Ohio, a leader in the Republican councils in the lower branch of congress, declared: "I think the whole mess smells to the high heavens. There ought to be prosecutions. If the government is being robbed, the leases ought to be canceled. It doesn't make any difference who gets hit, high or low, prosecutions should be pressed to the limit."

Representative Newton of Minnesota, another Republican regular, declared: "Assuming Mr. Doheny's statement to be true in all respects and that the payment of $100,000 was a loan and in no wise affected the granting of the lease or its terms, such conduct on the part of a cabinet officer is grossly reprehensible and merits the censure of all men, regardless of party. Enough evidence has been produced to cast the gravest suspicion upon the whole deal."

Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, left for New York to locate and bring to the senate the $100,000 note given him by former Secretary of the Interior Fall. Doheny spent the day here in conference with his lawyers, Gavin McNab of San Francisco and Frederick Kellogg of New York, on a modified proposal to surrender the naval oil leases to the government.

HERE AND THERE

William E. Sage was found guilty of second degree murder in the slaying of James A. McNair in the Pennsylvania railroad station at Pittsburgh 10 years ago.

William E. Shutt, 53, former assistant attorney general and a prominent Illinois Democratic politician, was found dead on a sidewalk in Springfield, Ill.

Mrs. Martha Crooks, a widow, was found dead in her home at Toronto, Ont., with her skull crushed, evidently the victim of robbers. Bureau drawers throughout the house had been ransacked.

A protest against humorous reference to the unknown soldier on the stage or in comic pages of newspapers was made in a resolution adopted by the New York state chapter of the National American War Mothers.

OHIO LOSES $500,000

Bus Lines Able to Run Without Paying Their Licenses.

Columbus, Jan. 26.—State treasury officials estimate that the state of Ohio lost $500,000 in the last six months because efficient machinery has not been in operation to enforce the provisions of the Freeman-Collister motor bus law, which became effective last July. In the last six months the law has been in effect bus lines have paid only $86,273.50 for licenses under its provisions. It had been estimated the new law would yield $1,000,000 revenue a year. Buses were able to run without paying their licenses because they could not be checked up.

Half of the license money from the bus lines has to be prorated among the counties and municipalities through which the buses operate, based on mileage of streets or roads traveled over. The other half goes to the state highway fund.

BRITISH TRADESMEN TO REOPEN QUARTERS

England to Accord Recognition to Soviet Russia.

London, Jan. 26.—It is practically certain that Russia is to be recognized by Great Britain.

In view of that certainty, it is stated that a number of British commercial men, who have been engaged in discussions with Moscow, have now gone to Petrograd to reopen the Russo-British chamber of commerce, in association with a similar organization in London.

Dan Irving, Labor member of the house of commons from the Burnley constituency, died suddenly, with heart failure given as the cause of his death.

The rumor that Lady Astor is about to join the Labor party was denied by her in a speech at Plymouth. Lady Astor paid a tribute to the Laborites, but she affirmed that she would never become a socialist. "There is no occasion to be afraid of the labor government," said Lady Astor. "The cabinet contains many really fine and splendid men."

Premier Ramsay MacDonald will attempt to reopen the Anglo-American debt settlement in an effort to obtain better terms for Great Britain, it was learned from an authoritative source. The British negotiations for funding the British debt were conducted at Washington by Stanley Baldwin, while he was chancellor of the exchequer and before he became premier.

Rebels Evacuate Capital.

Mexico City, Jan. 26.—After occupying Morelia, capital of the state of Michoacan, for 36 hours, the rebels under General Estrada are reported to be evacuating the city and leaving in a southerly direction. Their action was hastened by the fact that a strong federal force was nearing Morelia. According to federal headquarters at Celaya, it is believed the Estrada forces will try to join the Sanchistas in the states of Guerrero, Puebla and Vera Cruz.

OIL LAND LEASES TO BE CANCELED

GUILTY MUST BE PROSECUTED

Teapot Dome and Other Oil Reserve Leases Discussed by the President and His Advisers—Agent of Sinclair Testifies He Loaned $25,000 to Former Secretary of Interior Fall—Clerk Makes Serious Charge.

Washington, Jan. 26.—President Coolidge and his cabinet determined that the circumstances of the leases of the navy's valuable oil reserves to Doheny and Sinclair interests are such that the property must be returned to the government.

The $100,000 loan to former Secretary of the Interior Fall, preceding the lease of the California reserves to Doheny and the Sinclair lease of Teapot Dome, were discussed to the exclusion of all other topics.

At the end of the long session it was learned that the decision was reached that not only must the property be returned, but all persons guilty of conspiring to get the leases must be punished.

The question most extensively discussed was precisely how individuals responsible for the transactions can be made amenable to the law. Attorney General Laugherty was not present, having left Washington for Florida.

Secretary of the Navy Denby, who consented to the transfer of the oil leases from the navy department to Fall's jurisdiction, told the president and his colleagues in the official family he is convinced "there is something wrong about the whole transaction." He declared he is now sure "that the wool was pulled over his eyes" when he was induced to let the oil reserves pass from under his care. He related the circumstances to the cabinet, and gave them an indication of what he proposes to tell the senate committee when he appears before it again.

After the conference it was learned that the president would like to act at once, but feels that he owes the senate the courtesy of giving the committee more time to get at the facts and is disposed to wait until Fall testifies on Monday, at least. However, he has definitely made up his mind that he will take the necessary action without undue delay.

"Colonel" J. W. Zevely, agent and personal counsel of Harry F. Sinclair, owner of the Teapot Dome lease, loaned former Secretary Albert B. Fall $25,000 of Sinclair's money, Zevely told the senate investigating committee. He also gave Fall $10,000 for "expenses" to Russia, he said.

Frederick C. DeZendorf, formerly in the public land office, testified that because he made an adverse report on oil land in California sought by the Standard Oil interests, he was demoted by Fall and his report was "lost." He said that subsequently Fall took into his own hands the case of the government to oust the Standard Oil, dismissed the proceedings and turned the property over to the Standard.

SENATOR REED IN RACE

Expected to Announce Candidacy for Democratic Nomination.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri is expected to make formal announcement of his candidacy for the presidency at a conference of his followers in St. Louis today. The senator will attend the conference. It is generally believed that his candidacy will be formally launched under the management of E. H. Glenn of St. Louis, who managed the campaign of the late Champ Clark prior to the Baltimore convention. Glenn has been one of the most enthusiastic of the senator's followers.

If Senator Reed decides to enter the contest he will face a fight in his own state. The Democratic organization in Missouri is against him, and has been lined up behind McAdoo's candidacy by Frank B. Ferris, state chairman.

Democrats in Georgia, under the leadership of former Governor Hardwick, already are planning to put Reed's name on the ticket in that state.

A favorable report of the Langley bill, carrying $8,500,000 to provide additional hospital facilities for world war veterans was ordered by the house public buildings committee.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Must Die in Chair.

Columbus, Jan. 26.—John Nelson, colored, of Springfield, wife slayer, must die in the electric chair at the Ohio penitentiary on Feb. 1, the Ohio supreme court ruled. A motion for a review of his case was overruled by the court after arguments were presented in the slayer's behalf by Attorney Sully Jaymes of Springfield. Conviction in the Clark county common pleas court was upheld by the court of appeals.

Donahy a Witness.

Columbus, Jan. 26.—Governor Donahy has been subpoenaed as a witness in the trial of former Mayor Adolph Unger of Tiffin, O., now being conducted in federal court at Toledo. The subpoena, served by a deputy United States marshal, calls for the governor to be at Toledo Monday. Donahy accepted service of the subpoena and will be in Toledo whenever his testimony is wanted, he said.

Boarding House Burned.

St. Clairsville, O., Jan. 26.—Fifty miners, employees of the Clarkson Coal company, near here, were forced to flee without clothes when the boarding and rooming house of Mrs. John Mammie was consumed by flames. Many of the men lost money which they did not have time to recover.

Day Pays Annual Premium.

Columbus, Jan. 26.—A check for $107,000 was paid the state industrial commission by State Treasurer Day as the annual premium for state insurance on all employees of the Ohio government who come under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act.

Dies of Burns.

East Liverpool, O., Jan. 26.—As a result of burns sustained three weeks ago, when he was enveloped with escaping steam as a crane upset, Benjamin Busby, 23, laborer of Toronto, near here, died in the city hospital here.

Bootleggers Sentenced.

Cincinnati, Jan. 26.—George Remus, convicted of bootlegging, and his 13 alleged associates left here to serve terms ranging from one to two years in Atlanta (Ga.) penitentiary on charges of conspiracy to violate national prohibition laws.

Crabbe's Ruling on Referendum.

Columbus, Jan. 26.—All actions of municipal councils are subject to the referendum except actions specifically exempted by law, Attorney General Crabbe ruled in an opinion to the state bureau of accounting.

Coaster Killed.

Canton, O., Jan. 26.—Walter King, 11, was struck by an automobile while he was coasting. The autoist took the lad to a hospital, where he died from an injury to his brain.

Poincare Cabinet Wobbles.

Paris, Jan. 26.—For the first time since the French troops occupied the Ruhr, a year ago, the Poincare cabinet wobbled on the occasion of the opening of parliamentary discussion of the government's fiscal proposals. With the government offering a program of increased taxation in an effort to halt the mounting deficits, almost every speaker in parliament took exception to the government's plan, denying the efficacy of the proposed increased taxation.

SHARP CUTS MADE IN INDIRECT TAXES

Reductions Aggregating $103,000,000 Are Agreed Upon.

AMUSEMENT LEVIES AFFECTED

Theater Admission Tax Repealed Altogether on Tickets Up to 50 Cents. Other Amusements and Sports Included in the Repeal—Reduction to Become Effective the Day the Bill Becomes Law.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Reduction in theater admission and other indirect taxes aggregating $103,254,488.63 were agreed upon by the house ways and means committee in its consideration of the Mellon bill. These cuts become effective the day the bill becomes a law.

The theater admission tax was repealed altogether on tickets up to 50 cents. Other amusement and sports also are included in the repeal. The saving to the public in this action is estimated by the treasury at $33,000,000.

Secretary Mellon recommended the elimination of the entire amusement tax, which would have saved $90,000,000 to patrons of motion pictures, legitimate theaters, baseball and football, prize fights, circuses and other forms of entertainment.

Chairman Green said the agreement on repealing the tax up to 50 cents did not necessarily mean that it might not be carried higher. The committee has agreed to take off $120,000,000 in the indirect levies, which still leaves a balance of $17,000,000 to cut off. But in any event, he said, the admission tax will not be repealed on tickets above 75 cents.

The taxes covered in the action include all the nuisance taxes which Mr. Mellon urged should be eliminated. Other items on which the levies were repealed altogether and the amounts of reductions were: Telephone, telephone and leased wires, $30,380,783.93; soft drinks, including near beer, $10,131,800.94; theater seating tax (on owners), $1,713,566.83; candy, $11,315,465.83; hunting, bowtie and duck knives, $31,306.17; livery and livery wagons, $138,253.72; hunting garments, $108,274.28; yachts and motor boats, $267,079.97; carpets and rugs, $928,609.73; trunks, $46,610.27; valises, suit cases, handbags, etc., $34,098.35; purses and pocketbooks, $151,151.22; portable lighting fixtures, $229,575.07; fans, $11,081.48.

In addition, the committee cut in half the tax on produce sales, the reduction being from 2 cents on each pound, or fraction to 1 cent on $100 or fraction. This action was taken in response to a vigorous appeal from representatives of the Chicago board of trade, who pointed out that the tax was driving this trading, including grain, from Chicago to Winnipeg, Canada. The loss of revenue in this reduction will be $3,507,690.84.

A 50 per cent reduction likewise was made in the tax on bowling alleys and billiard tables, saving $1,200,000.

WOULD QUIZ FORD

Demand Made in Committee For Detroit Motor King's Presence.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Demand that Henry Ford be summoned personally to testify in explanation of his offer for the government's nitrate and power plant at Muscle Shoals provoked a sharp fight in the house military affairs committee.

Representative Hull (Rep., Ia.), who is opposed to acceptance of the Ford offer, pressed his demand that the Detroit automobile manufacturer be called. Representative Speaks (Rep., O.) supported him. They contended that Ford never had appeared to discuss his offer and that there were a number of things about which he should be interrogated.

Representative James (Rep., Mich.) violently objected to Ford being summoned. He took the position that the offer was well understood by the members of the committee, and that men representing Ford would be of as much value to the committee as the automobile magnate himself.

Communes Mexican Policy.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The administration's policy in going to the support of President Obregon in putting down the Huerta rebellion in Mexico was highly commended by Representative Tom Connally, Democrat of Texas. He said: "This is one time when I am right behind the administration on its Mexican policy. The Huerta revolution is just an election contest, anyhow."

MILLION VIEW BODY

Lenin's Death Said to Have Cemented Break in Reds' Ranks.

Moscow, Jan. 26.—More than a million bereaved Russians have already passed by Nicolai Lenin's bier, in spite of the zero weather and depths of snow which all week has made traffic difficult.

The entire population of many surrounding villages have walked to Moscow. Many labor unions have marched en bloc to gather in or near the north chamber, where they express their feelings by singing revolutionary songs to the muffled airs of a hidden band.

The death of Lenin appears to have cemented the break in the ranks of the Communist party, and all are now working in unison. "Lenin is dead—Leninism is alive," declared Zinoviev. The holy synod has announced that the funeral services will be held Sunday at the Moscow cathedral, with Archbishop Antony officiating.

Among the many messages of sympathy received from all parts of the world was one from Mustapha Kemal, expressing the sorrow of the Mohammedans, from Smyrna, where the ruler of the Turks is also suffering from a severe illness.

Refutes French Charge.

London, Jan. 26.—Indignantly refuting the French charge that the passion of British members for golf is delaying the work of the committee of experts inquiring into Germany's resources, Lloyd George declared: "Golf forces you to concentrate your mind, which is a good thing for men involved in absorbing tasks. Games bring friendships and make you forget the differences and difficulties of political life." Lloyd George also pointed out that while he was premier of Britain, France had eight premiers, all of whom worked seven days a week without playing golf.

ACTION POSTPONED

Attorneys at Odds Over Question of Pay Boost For Judges.

Columbus, Jan. 26.—A contest developed at the session of the Ohio State Bar association over a proposal to increase the length of judges' terms and equalize their salaries. Charges of "conniving and scheming" were hurled and judges and attorneys engaged in a hot word battle, finally postponing action on the proposal, which had been recommended by the association's committee on judicial administration and legal reform, headed by Attorney John A. Chene of Cleveland.

The proposal, which pointed out inequalities existing in judges' salaries over the state, recommended that the association instruct its president to name a committee to take steps looking toward adoption of a constitutional amendment equalizing salaries and increasing length of judges' terms to not less than 10 years.

Naked Dances Condemned.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—The holding of naked dances in the public schools of Berlin has created an uproar in the Russian government and diet, as well as among Berlin parents. The dances were performed by boys and girls of all school ages.

"YOUR UNCLE SAM"

By GLADYS T. DUHAIME

(Copyright, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"CLOUDS banked up over there in the east will bring snow," prophesied Jim Calloway to his wife. "Bye, little woman; home late tonight. Got to see Freeman." He stooped to fasten the top buckle of an overshoe, straightened himself to his full six-foot-two, and was off, his feet screeching on the firm-trodden snow. Letty returned to the grateful warmth of the kitchen, something of the storm cloud's blackness reflected in her heart. She knew the acute humiliation seeing Freeman meant. Last year, waiting in the outer office while Jim went in to pay over the interest so painfully accumulated, she had overheard the snarling rebuke, "Expected something on the principal. 'F a man ain't able to have somethin' in a year's time, somethin's wrong somewhere."

Jim had made no defense, spoken no word of the unexpected and unshared expense of his mother's illness and funeral, but the hurt had lingered in his brown eyes. Returning home they had made a budget and all would have gone well this year but for Babykin's coming.

No doubt Freeman would extend the loan, but he would be ungracious, dour. It was his nature. And Jim, splendid and unselfish himself, loathed asking favors.

Oh, dear, if she had only been lucky enough to win that word contest! She had tried so hard. First prize, $5,000! Many other gorgeous prizes! She sighed to remember the weary hours spent combing the dictionary to find words composed of the letters in "Monito," the name of a new hosiery. She had been so sure three months before when she had mailed her list that not one legitimate word had escaped her—so sure that every time that harassed, "money-worry" look came into Jim's eyes she had had all she could do to keep her secret.

Babykin's good morning coo came to her ears like the factory's whistle does to others—the call to duty.

The beds made, the rooms tidied, the fires mended, the children supplied with new entertainment, she seated herself with her sewing in the window that commanded the mail box, as she had done faithfully for a month. What if Mr. McAllister, the letter-carrier, could not make his rounds in the heavy snow? Oh, but he would; he was that conscientious kind, who visualized the United States Post Office department as a noble but inexorable employer, whom he referred to as "your Uncle Samuel."

He might be late, but he would surely come. When he did, she would run right down and get the letter. Then she would telephone Jim the glad news, let him guess the amount of her prize, hear him say he'd come directly home after office. She could forecast the relief in his voice as he would add: "I won't have to see Freeman now."

The morning dragged past. When she went to prepare lunch, she stationed the children in the window. An excited squealing and banging on the window-sill told her the vigil was ended. Lowering the gas under the kettle, she hurried into boots, heavy sweater and cap, and floundered down to the mail box.

One glance was enough to assure her it was empty, nor could she find trace of a letter in the drifts around. It was all she could do to keep the agony out of her face as she returned the children's happy signals.

With feigned cheerfulness she was serving the plates, when a new and truly terrifying thought assailed her. She had never told Jim she had borrowed $5 from the billfold in which he kept his interest money. She had taken it to enclose with her list of "Monito" words to qualify her list for the highest prizes. She rushed upstairs and unlocked the chiffonier drawer. Jim had taken the billfold. She must get word to Jim at all costs. It would never do to have him discover the shortage with old Freeman sneering on.

All efforts to get 'phone service failed. For one reckless moment she considered taking the children and going into town.

Her nervous abstraction had its effect on the children and the short winter afternoon was hectic in its confusion.

Again and again she tried the telephone. In fact, she was giving the receiver one last desperate rattle when she heard Jim greeting the children in the kitchen.

Disentangling their arms from around his long legs, he put a letter into Letty's hand.

"Got a chance to ride up with Phil Bruce. Lucky, too, because no plow was passed and walking's tough. Met poor Old Man McAllister stumbling along into our street. Apologized all over the place. Doesn't know how, but failed to deliver a letter here. Of course I gave him hanz for coming all the way up here for that. I told him he ought to know that we never got mail too important to wait over one delivery, but he made his usual speech about doing business for his 'Uncle Samuel.' Admirable attitude to take towards one's work. Why, Letty, mamma—son, get a glass of water for your mother. Not well, dear?" taking her into his arms. "Something gone wrong?"

"No, very, very RIGHT. Read this." "Five thousand dollars!" handing it back. "Children, your mother is a woman of wealth!"

A Reason.

U. S. STEAMBOAT INSPECTION SERVICE SAVES MANY LIVES

Vessels Carried 323,000,000 Passengers With Only Fifty-Nine Deaths in Year.

Three hundred and twenty-three million passengers were carried on steamboats reporting to the steamboat inspection service in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, and only 59 of them lost their lives by accident—less than the number of pedestrians killed accidentally in the streets of most of our large cities.

Against this mortality on coast and inland water craft there were 907 lives saved by appliances required by law and examined by the steamboat inspection service, whose activities are revealed in the annual report to Secretary of Commerce Hoover at Washington by the supervising inspector general.

Total accidents during the year involving loss of life were 197, and the aggregate loss of life was 247, of which 59 were passengers. Of the fatalities 116 were due to suicide, falling overboard and other acts of the deceased, leaving only 81 directly chargeable to collision, explosions, foundering and similar mishaps. The ratio of passengers lost to total passengers carried was one to 5,478,785.

During the year the service inspected and certified 7,653 vessels with a total tonnage of 14,982,850, an increase of 110 in the number of vessels and of 1,050,973 in tonnage, compared with the previous year. Domestic vessels inspected numbered 7,613, comprising 6,941 steam vessels, 790 motor vessels, 19 passenger barges, 566 seagoing barges and 753 cargo vessels permitted to carry passengers.

Steel plates for the construction of marine boilers inspected at mills numbered 2,689, with much other boiler material as well. The service also inspected 166,434 new life preservers, 6,800 new cork ring buoys, 425 new lifeboats, 478 new lifeboats, 104 new liferafts at factories and 20 line-carrying guns. Rejections numbered 4-398 life preservers, 149 cork-ring buoys,
9 lifeboats and 1 raft.

Licenses were issued to 25,052 officers of all grades. Only 23 applicants examined for visual defects were found to be color blind or otherwise visually ineligible. Certificates of efficiency were issued to 10,456 able seamen and 14,913 lifeboat men.

Letter Mailed in Arctic Received 4 Years Later

Four years ago Roald Amundsen, the explorer, mailed a letter in the far North to a friend in Minneapolis.
After various adventures the communication reached its destination a few days ago, bearing on its face an epic of the postal service at the world's edge.

Esquimo carriers and dog teams,
who started with the letter, had succumbed to cold and starvation and their mail pouch lay for nearly four years preserved by ice and snow until last summer, when a party of Russians discovered it. They sent the letter to Amundsen's home in Norway, where his brother, Leon, forwarded it to the Minneapolis destination.

New U. S. Gun Shoots Huge Missile 23 Miles

United States army ordnance experts have developed what they believe to be the heaviest and most powerful gun of its kind in the world.
It is of the 14-inch, 50-caliber type,
and capable of hurling an armor-piercing projectile of 1,560 pounds for 23 miles. It can be mounted on wheeled carriages and drawn along railroad tracks. The weight of gun and carriage is 700,000 pounds. It can be fired either from its carriage upon the tracks or when rolled to a concrete emplacement. For this purpose wheeled supports are provided which can be removed within 30 minutes.

FAST HORSE
Carmelita, Raised by J. S. Smith, Made
Good Time at Pinehurst.

Carmelita Hall 2:06¼ trotted the Pinehurst, N. C., half mile track in 2:09 last week. This is unquestion-ably the fastest performance ever staged by a performer of like gait over a small oval in January. This mare, which was bred by Jos. S.
Smith of Circleville, Ohio, has raced with marked success for a number of seasons and despite her size and length of stride has shown remarkable ability on half mile tracks.

THIRTY IMPRISONED

Explosion Occurs in a Mine While 100 Men Are at Work.
Marion, Ill., Jan. 26.—All but 30 of 400 miners, who were working in the Cleran-Clinch coal mine, near here, when an explosion occurred, have been rescued. The 30 miners have built bulkheads to stop gas fumes while two rescue crews are working to reach them. Fire that followed the explosion was extinguished in a few minutes. Three of the rescued miners were badly burned and are in a hospital. The cause of the explosion is not known by mine officials.
The imprisoned miners are able to communicate by telephone with the mine superintendent.

Cow-Pilot a Small Fish.
The cow-pilot is a small fish, so called in Bermuda because it is believed always to accompany the cow-fish. It is one of the demerselles and is also called "mofarra." Demerselles are distinguished by having only two spines in the anal fin.

OBREGON MAKES GAINS

Rebel Forces in Mexico Reported
Hard Pressed.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The situation
along the gulf coast and the interior of Mexico has materially improved so far as the interests of this government and the cause of President Obregon are concerned; it was stated
at the state department.

Telegraphic dispatches from diplomatic and consular agents report the government forces under President Obregon making material gains, it was declared. There is nothing to indicate that President Obregon is in danger of having his retreat on the western front cut off. The emphatic statement was made that this government is quite satisfied with the trend of events.

On the front where Obregon is operating, according to a Mexican embassy statement, the advance continues and broken up units of General Estrada's rebel army are being pursued.

Oil Fields Reopened.

Tampico, Jan. 26.—The rebel gun-boat Tampico arrived off the entrance to the harbor from Vera Cruz, joining the warship Saragosa. The United States destroyers Hull and Cory from Vera Cruz joined the cruiser Richmond. Since the recapture of Ciudad Victoria by the federal general, Benecio Lopez, all rebel activities between Tampico and Monterey have ceased. American companies are returning employees to operations in the light oil region, from which they had been withdrawn.

Band of Fanatics Routed.

Manila, Jan. 26.—Government forces won an important victory in their fight to put down the uprising
of the Culumans, when in a battle near Placer the state constabulary
under General Bowers killed 54, wounded 19 and captured 13, the latter of whom they are holding as hostages. The Culumans are a band of religious fanatics, who have been terrifying certain parts of the country with preachments against the government. In the battle near Placer no members of the constabulary were reported on the casualty list.

Venizelos Against Monarchy.

Athens, Jan. 26.—M. Venizelos, declaring himself in favor of a republic
for Greece, with a constituent assembly, announced his views as follows:
"I have ceased to believe in the usefulness of the monarchical regime.
Since the death of the founder of the dynasty the throne has trampled under foot all the principles of a democratic kingdom."

Lime Water Bread.

Lime is lacking in the tropics, generally speaking, and for that reason
a medical authority urges the eating of bread made of lime water as a means of supplying the necessary element to the system.

EASY MARKS ARE PLENTIFUL

Business Man Known to Have Given
Out Good Money for Something That Was His.

A friend of mine told me the other night about a small manufacturer who came to Washington from, well say, Toledo. Back home he'd got stirred up about a bill that was somewhere in the mill at the capital. It hit his business and he wanted to be in the know.
Thought he'd better come to Washington himself and get his information
first-hand.

Some friend told him to look up a man in Washington, one of these "Sh-h-h! Leave-it-to-me" boys. So the Toledo manufacturer rings up this Mr.
Fixit, who presently turns up at his hotel, very mysterious.

"Well," says Fixit, rubbing his chin
in the most approved judicial manner, "well—of course, you understand there are ways of finding out," with just a touch on the lead pedal on the "are."
"But, as you might say, you've got to know the ropes. Let me look around a bit. I'll meet you tomorrow at 10:30 o'clock."

Next day he's on deck again, very much pleased and still very mysterious.

"Come along with me," says the Sh-h-h artist, and the two of them hop
a taxi for the hill. There the factory man is led into the senate office building, where Mr. Fixit pops into an office or two, leaving our friend and hero, Mr. George W. Come-on, out in the lobby. Pretty soon Fixit comes out looking wiser than ever and they hop over to the capitol. Once more the visitor is left to wait in the rotunda to admire the statues while his new friend slips into another room.

He comes back in a minute looking like seven Solomons, only a lot more mysterious, and says:

"Quick! Come on. 'Sall right. But wait till we get in a cab."

Once in the cab, the business man is handed a copy of the bill and a committee report.

"Stick it in your pocket till you get back to the hotel," he is told. Which he does, of course; and in the end he pays $250 for two documents which he could have had for nothing and a little patience, just by asking.—The Nation's Business.

Islands Reserves of Timber.

In Borneo, the Philippines and New Guinea, there is a field of wealth
which has been hitherto little explored.
It is computed that the value of the timber on these islands would equal a sum sufficient to pay all the allied war debts. Among the choice trees indigenous to the islands are the camagou, whose wood is yellow and black, like tortoiseshell, and the malaya, which resists the ravages of white ants and sea slugs, so destructive to other trees.
There is also a fine growth of mahogany, both red and yellow varieties—the red taking on a beautiful rich wine color when immersed in sea water. The tall lawn, used in the making of masts and ships is found in plenty, as well as the dugan, which is the hardest wood known. The difficulties encountered in taking out timber in Brazil, due to climatic and other conditions, obtain in a not greatly less degree in these islands, a fact which probably accounts in a measure for their having been as yet so little exploited. The use of airplanes to fly over impenetrable forests bids fair to open up much unknown territory.

Clever German Thieves.

An amazing hoax has been played on the small Prussian town of Marz-hausen. A stranger, who said he represented the provincial authorities, informed the local council that he was charged with the duty of making certain changes in the electric lighting arrangements. For this purpose the existing wires at the power station must be removed and better ones substituted. The town, he added, would have to remain unlit for a day. The council duly assented. Next day there arrived "mechanics," who dismantled
more than 1,000 yards of copper wire.
Residents, delighted to lend a hand in what they believed to be a preliminary toward getting a better lighting supply, assisted the strangers to transport the wire to the railway station. The sequel is that Marzhausen has been dwelling in darkness ever since. The only light that so far has dawned upon the inhabitants is that they have been the victims of a clever gang of metal thieves.

A Small World.

Following the armistice Lieutenant Paul J. Smith of this city, now of Eldorado, Ark., went to France as a K. of C. secretary, and lived at the home of a charming French family with two daughters. After his return to the States, letters were exchanged for awhile and they gradually ceased.
One day last week a letter was received inquiring whether the recipient could possibly be "Smitty" of the class of '16, Notre Dame, and, if so, to let the writer know, as he was Louis Patrick Hare, a fellow classmate, now a Paris representative of the Chicago Tribune and the husband of one of the French girls before mentioned.—Indianapolis News.

Should Be Interesting.

After having spent 62 of his 92 years in prison on the island of Eba, Carmine Donatello Crocco, at one time the most dreaded bandit captain of southern Italy, has published his memoirs, according to reports in Italian papers. Crocco left the army of the king of Sicily when a youth, took up banditry and became so powerful that several thousand troops were necessary to capture and wipe out his band. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

FOUND THE GHOST

Mystery Really Small Task for New York Sleuths.

Comparatively Simple Explanation of Happenings Which Had Made the Proverbial "Nine Days' Wonder."

Ghosts are said to walk abroad at night in country churchyards or to haunt old, old houses, or to wander in far-off deserted places; but cities have not been supposed to be their favorite resorts, nor in cities any such public and unromantic a place as a lunch-room or restaurant. And so it was with feelings of mingled astonishment and dismay that a restaurant keeper in this city recently observed what looked like ghostly pranks played upon his furniture, employees and patrons, according to a report of the Engineering Foundation.

It was seemingly a very modern ghost specializing in electrical effects. Plated tableware would not stay put, but frisked about in unaccountable ways, iron pots rooted themselves to the stove, watches were stopped; customers paid just one visit, beheld the strange doings, and fled to return no more. Help was impossible to retain. Something must be done, the ghost must be laid.

Now, it happened that next door was a substitution of the electric light company, and the restaurateur, observing the electric qualities of his familiar spirit, guessed that it might somehow have escaped from his proper domain since it is especially true of electrical sprites that "stone walls do not a prison make." So he appealed to the electric light company to keep it own ghosts busy at home.

The manager of the station thought the restaurant man might be "spoofing" or something, so he decided on a personal investigation. It was all too true. Steel table knives set for service leaped out of place and remained rigidly fixed, giving apprehensions as to the possible fate of a customer who attempted to eat with his knife; iron pots needed sandow cooks to pry them from the stove, and other weird demonstrations abounded. But he had the answer. He had found his ghost.

It seems that near the wall on the side of the electric station nearest the restaurant were many large electrical conductors, each carrying heavy currents to and from the converters, or transformers as they are sometimes called. Now it is a property of an electric current to produce a magnetic field, quite similar to that of a big natural magnet, and the "lines of force" of such a field can pass through a brick wall about as easily as through nothing at all. Iron articles in such a field become themselves magnetized and try to line up along the lines of force just as a compass needle lines up with the lines of force of the magnetism of the earth. The restaurant, or at least much of its hardware, was magnetized.

The remedy was simple. The lines of force will pass through bricks, but not through steel, so heavy steel plates were set up along the wall of the substitution toward the restaurant. The effect was magical, the ghost was laid. Knives and forks stayed put. One might eat with one's knife in safety; customers were reassured; help was again obtainable.

Said the restaurant man: "I've heard about this personal magnetism stuff and how to get it. I've had enough, I'll tell the world. No more magnetism in mine, thanks."

And this is the story of the now famous magnetic ghost of Manhattan island.—By Science Service.

"Fingers Before Forks."

Knives and forks played no part in one grand state dinner given in Morocco to a group of prominent Americans who recently returned from French Morocco, where they were guests of the government. Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute, reciting his experiences at the banquet, said:

"When we reached Marakech we were the guests of the grand pasha, courteous in speech and elegant in manner, with whom we sat on the floor and ate a whole sheep with our fingers. The Berber prince from time to time tore out a rib from the roast and handed it to his guests, and as a special attention he gave a kidney of the sheep to one of the American women of the party."

Odd Experience.

Being a stranger in Chicago, I made arrangements to be met by my cousin at one of the entrances to a well-known department store. After a fruitless wait of 30 minutes I went inside to a telephone booth, intending to call her house, to learn what was delaying her. After depositing a nickel, a pounding on the glass partition of the booth caused me to stop, look and listen. There was my cousin in the very next booth trying to get her house also. We had been waiting at different entrances.—Chicago Journal.

Photographic Statuettes.

Recently introduced into this country from Europe is a very interesting method of making photographic statuettes. The subject is photographed in the usual way. The paper print is then cut out, following the exact outline of the figure. This is pasted on to a mahogany board 3-16 inch thick, which is cut away to match the photograph. When mounted on a small pedestal, this picture stands out in relief so that it looks like an actual statuette.

Suit of Black Velvet; Fox Collar and Cuffs

Showing a very beautiful suit of black velvet heavily embroidered in bright green and red beads—collared and cuffed with red fox.

New Tea Gowns Are of Turkish Trouser Style

Lounging robes made in Turkish designs are very much like an elaborate suit of pajamas with the trousers gathered in at the ankles. This may seem rather an absurd fashion, says a fashion writer in the New York Tribune, but there was a time when pantaloons were a very important feature. Beautiful ladies then attended the opera and balls in their straight robes, short and scanty, beneath which dangled frilly pantaloons, permitting only the merest tips of tiny slippers to appear.

So it is just as reasonable to suppose that present-day women may take to wearing, in the privacy of their homes, velvet suits made on the lines of Turkish trousers. These are decidedly more modest than the pantaloons in which Nineteenth century women walked abroad.

The gowns in no way resemble the informality of the negligee, although they are generally supposed to be close of kin. The difference is marked in both line and fabric. Long and straight are these tea gowns and their materials are in striking contrast to the chiffons, gauzes, laces and ribbons in which femininity indulges itself in the dressing room. These stately robes, in which one may even dine informally, demand broadcades, velvets and tissues of gold and silver.

Then there are the trailing chiffon gowns in batik designs that have become so popular, and some of our shops show Venetian robes as kimonos. These are in velvets of mellow old colorings, the entire surface painted in dull gold and silver. There is a dull red one painted in gold and lined with olive green. One of mole-colored velvet is lined with Vatican red.

Circular Panels and Flounces Brought Out

So anxious have the French designers been to avoid mistakes and to please fastidious Americans that many of them have settled on a compromise in design. This they have effected by giving straight lines a circular treatment.

This may sound incongruous, but there is truth in the statement that nothing is impossible to a French dressmaker. It has been accomplished by the use of circular panels and flounces on straight-line fall frocks. Circular bands and loops without number are employed and the skirts are often gathered or given a circular effect by a slash at the front or one side. Similar decorations are given below a straight-line bodice by wrapped skirts and the apron at front, back or sides is frequently utilized in a similar manner. Circular insets of fur and over-tunics offer opportunities for like effects.

Length is likewise compromised by uneven hem lines, longer at back than front or trailing at the sides. Here, too, the ever-present apron comes into play. Skirts for daytime dresses are generally of moderate length, however.

Stenciled Walls Add to Appearance of Home

Colors for stenciling can be bought in various shades at almost any paint store. Get a short bristled brush and before painting starts, see that your colors are thinned as directed. Trim your stencils at the top and side if you are stenciling a frieze about the top of your wall. In this way you can get near the ceiling and into corners. Thumb tacks should be used to hold the stencil flat against the wall. When you put the color on, use a rotary motion, like scrubbing, and be sure to keep your stencil clean; for that is one of the secrets of successful stenciling. Every time you take it from the wall, lay it on a sheet of clean paper and wipe off with a soft cloth.

When The Other Fellow's Driving.
When another fellow's driving
Tho I constantly am striving To behave the way a passenger
should do;
Still in spite of my endeavor
I discover, I am ever Sitting tensely there beside him—
driving too.

At the highway I keep peering
And my mind is busy steering,
And I figure every chance the driver takes;

In a manner highly graphic,
I keep putting on imaginary brakes.
When he's threading thru the traffic,

In his skill and in his science
I may fondly place reliance,
I may bow to his experience and years,
Yet I sit there all aquiver,
In a six or in a flivver,
While my mind is feeding gas or shifting gears.

So wherever I am riding
I am driving, I am guiding—
An imaginary wheel is in my hand!
With the closest application
I conduct each operation—
If you ever drove a car you'll understand.

—Grace Davenport McCarthy.

BELOW ZERO

Cold Shivers Chase Up Spine as the Mercury Drops.

The cold wave promised for Friday night, came along, thank you, just on time. The thermometer fell from 35 to one below zero and sent the shivers down one's vertebrae. Manager George Foerst showed the representative of this paper the daily chart maintained at the office and only one day this winter did the pressure fall below the three ounce pressure and that was several weeks ago, when the company had some trouble east of town and the pressure went down to two and a half ounces. The unit of heat is the same and an average pressure is maintained throughout the year.

Peculiar "Cradles."

An infant in Guinea is usually buried in sand up to its waist whenever the mother is busy, and this is the only cradle it ever knows. The little Lapp, on the other hand, fares most luxuriously in its mother's shoe. These Lapp shoes are big affairs of skin stuffed with soft moss and can be hung on a peg or tree branch safely out of the way. The Chinese baby is tied to the back of an older child, who goes about its play quite ignoring its burden.

What Else Should She Do?

A curly-headed tot named Evelyn, three years old, was asked by her mother if she had been at the hair tonic bottle and she replied, "Yes, mother, I did use it—my doll's hair is coming out in bunches. I had to do something to stop it."

AMUSEMENTS

Charles Maigne, Paramount director has proved himself a disciple of William DeMille's policy of 'making pictures without destroying literature' in his direction of "Drums of Fate" a new Paramount picture with Mary Miles Minter, which comes to the Met theater Monday and Tuesday.

Very few alterations of the original novel "Sacrifice" by Stephen French Whitman which is one of the most recent contributions to American fiction had to be made. This was due to the fact that the story had excellent screen possibilities—in fact, its situations were all capable of picturization and its characters strong, picturesque and highly interesting.

So suitable was this particular story for screen adaptation, that the author's original manuscript was purchased by the producers before the book went to the press, early in 1922.

The distinctive features of this story are an unusual love interest, hinging on the romance of the man and the girl each of whom has fallen in love with the other's photograph two years before their meeting; their cruel separation when the man is called away to Africa on an expedition the morning after their marriage and the fate that keeps them apart and makes their reunion seem impossible when the girl, thinking the man dead, remarries at the insistence of her guardian. There is also a prophecy of the death of the man by his Arab servant, Hamoud. These elements create a strong suspense which holds the story up in tenseness and dramatic quality until the end, when a logical happy ending gives a very pleasing finish to the story.

Miss Minter is surrounded by a very strong cast including M. B. Flynn, George Fawcett, Robert Cain, Casson Ferguson, Bertram Grassby, Noble Johnson, etc.

Prominent New Yorkers Says "Gail" and "Foist"

The New York schools are making a determined effort to stamp out the native dialect, but with seemingly little success. One of the handicaps comes from the influence in high places. A certain New York citizen, mentioned frequently as a presidential possibility, says "foist" for "first."

At one of the public schools recently, the pupils entertained their parents. A feature was an act wherein each child pronounced words properly. The children—there were many nations represented—did so well that even Augustus Thomas, always a stickler for good diction, would have been pleased had he been present.

Following the children, the speaker of the evening, a distinguished citizen, well learned in the law, was introduced. He proceeded to make an address in which he used all of the localisms, over and over, accentuating them and emphasizing them, even while praising the children for their diction! As he wasn't from Brooklyn, he didn't call oil "eri," or oysters, "orsters," or boys, "bedds," but he did call girls "gails," first, "foist" and made 26 other errors.—Detroit News.

To Make Building in Tokyo Quake-Proof

Tokyo's greatest skyscraper, the Marunouchi building, is to be made earthquake proof. The building was erected by a firm of American contractors for the Mitsubishi company. It was seriously shaken by the earthquake.

The structure, which covers an entire city block, is to be divided into thirteen sections, thus localizing shocks as is the case with the Imperial Hotel building, which withstood the shock well.

Quake-proof walls will be built between each section and its neighbors, piercing the building from roof to foundation. The work will extend over two years.

Mysterious Bottle.

French scientists have found something to puzzle over in a mysterious bottle that is owned by a French farmer, and that is said to be an infallible weather forecaster. The bottle has been handed down from generation to generation, and is filled with what appears to be a red sand and a yellow liquid. So famed has the bottle become and so reliable that it is said farmers in the vicinity invariably consult it before starting to harvest their crops. Solid particles gather in clusters when rain is coming, and white flakes appear before the snow. The entire mixture becomes cloudy when a hailstorm is coming.

A Fitting Job

A newly-made peer insisted on his garden taking as an apprentice a lad in whom he was interested. The lad was very lazy and the gardener was not pleased at having such youth thrust on him. Some time later, his lordship, walking in the garden, came on his gardener and said: "Well, John, how is my young friend getting on?" "Oh, he's doing fine," replied the gardener, with a smile; "he's working away there at the very job that suits him."

"I'm glad to hear that," said his lordship. "What may that be?" "Chasing snails off the walks," was the cutting reply.

Fishermen See Golden Cross Outlined in Sky

Hall Caine, in "The Master of Man," the scenes of which are literally the Isle of Man, a British island in the Irish sea, says that the herring shoal, which in the early summer comes down from Norway to the western coast of Man, drifts eastward as the year advances, on its way back to the frozen seas. The fishermen, going south to their fishing ground in the evening of the day, go down on their knees on the decks of their boats to pray to St. Marguerite and St. Patrick to send them safely home in the morning with a full cargo. The fishermen claim that when they rise from their knees, after their rough hands have been held close to their eyes, and look back at the castle as they sail past Castleton, they sometimes see a golden cross plainly outlined in the sky above it. Perhaps it is only a Manx superstition, but it seems, it is said, to bring a certain inspiration to their simple hearts for all that.

WOMAN DRIVER NO LONGER STRANGER

She Has Learned to Keep Cool Head and Is No Longer Butt of Fun and Ridicule.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.) The woman driver is no longer a stranger on our streets. The time when the sight of a woman driving a car in Chicago's congested streets provoked fear and trembling has gone, for now there are almost as many woman drivers as men, and we no longer look askance at them. In the old days before the new movement had appeared woman was looked upon as a creature of "nerves," a person to be coddled and protected and expected to have forebodings and fear but, with the coming of woman into a larger and broader life, that is, her entrance into business and all sorts of public enterprises, the "woman with nerves," is departing and we are welcoming the "woman with nerve," and in this pleasurable progress the automobile has played a conspicuous part.

Exhilarating Stimulus. Any woman who drives a car can testify to the exhilarating stimulus this work produces. She must learn to keep cool head; she must not worry about anything in front of her; she must keep a firm, steady grip on the wheel, and a no less intelligent control of her feet.

A man whom I was talking with recently said: "When my wife first endeavored to drive, I was always more or less uneasy as to what was going to happen to us, but as she got experience she seemed to increase her self-confidence and I no longer feel nervous and am quite content to see her at the wheel. In fact, I take considerable pride each night when I come down to find my wife and three kiddies waiting for me. It gives me a sense of ease to be on the back seat of our sedan and talk to the boys while Milady drives me home." No longer is the woman automobile driver simply tolerated and her desire to run a car scoffed at as an impractical whim. She is no longer the butt of fun and ridicule for the "woman at the wheel" because her record is here to stay.

SOLDER IS OF GREAT VALUE

In Making Battery Connections Care Should Be Taken That Metal Doesn't Overflow.

When a wire carrying electric current is to be attached to a terminal or to another piece of wire, the common practice is to make the connection, wrap it with tire tape and call it a job. The connection serves very well until corrosion of the parts sets in, when a resistance to passage of the current is set up with increasingly detrimental results.

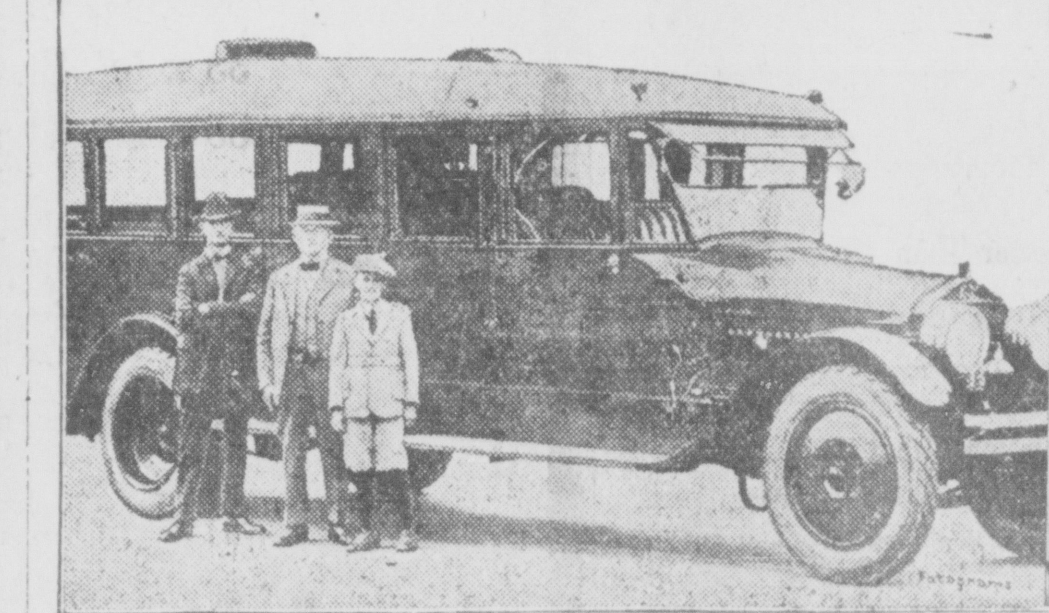

As a matter of fact all connections of this kind should be soldered as soon as they are made. In soldering these parts care should be taken to keep the solder from flowing on any part of the wire except the terminal, as the heat tends to make the wire brittle and likely to break. In doing the work hold the tinned surface of the soldering iron close to the places where the junction is to be made. Hold the iron steadily in the one place, so that solder flows freely on the connection, and, after completing the job, test with the battery to see that the current flows properly.

PLAN TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Bureau of Standards Officially Recommends Uniform Laws for Headlights.

Believing that hundreds of lives and thousands of automobile accidents may be saved in this country every year by uniformity of laws, the bureau of standards has officially recommended that all states adopt uniform laws regulating automobile headlights.

MOTOR PALACE CONTAINS EVERY CONVENIENCE OF MODERN HOME

In this motor palace, no matter where you are, without the slightest inconvenience, you can have comfortable sleeping berths, shower baths, ample cooking facilities, cracked ice made as you ride, market news and entertainment by radio. Innocent looking panels of mahogany here and there conceal scores of unlooked for appointments. There are wardrobes and linen closets, oil and electric stoves, an ice-making plant, and many other conveniences. The water supply system for the entire coach is provided by a 40-gallon tank, pressure being maintained at all times by means of a pump driven by a power take-off on the transmission. The motor palace is owned by W. K. Kellogg, breakfast food magnate and world traveler. He is shown with his son, Dr. Karl H. Kellogg, and grandson, John.

SPEEDOMETER FIXED TO REGULATE ENGINE

New Device Deadens Motor When Dialed Figure Reached.

Possibility of improvement in the speedometer has perhaps not impressed itself upon the average driver; but the product now being marketed indicates that this possibility exists. As far as the mechanism indicating speed, trip mileage and total mileage is concerned, this speedometer is no different from its predecessors. But it goes far beyond that.

The dial at the bottom of the instrument may be set for any desired speed, and then locked or left unlocked. In either event, as the car comes within two or three miles of the indicated speed, the signal light at the right will flash; and if the acceleration then continues until the car actually reaches the dialed speed, the ignition is cut off. If the dial has been locked, there is no escape from this; if it has been left unlocked, the driver may meet an emergency by a simple twist of the key, setting the limit forward to any desired point.

Finally, the instrument may be adjusted so that the signal light alone works, without the ignition cut-out; or the cut-out alone, without the light; or both together, as described above. Ordinarily, when the ignition cut-out functions, the engine will go dead and stay dead until the car speed falls below the dialed figure; and at this point, the cut-out will go out of action and the rolling car will start the engine, just as in braking with the engine. If it is desired to prevent this, the dial may be left unlocked, and turned back to zero as the cut-out comes into action.—Scientific American.

DUTY OF EVERY CAR DRIVER

Keep Machine in Good Repute on Streets and Highways, Says Secretary Fred Caley.

Keeping the motor car in good repute on the streets and highways, according to Fred H. Caley, executive secretary of the National Motorists' association, is the duty of every owner and the basis upon which the continued success of the motor car as a form of safe transportation depends.

"Some motorists need to be educated to a better understanding of their responsibilities, and act upon the advice of the more experienced," says Mr. Caley. "Our rules of safety reach this class satisfactorily, but we must treat the irresponsible motorist differently. Mere words, even the most caustic phrases, do not reach him. A more vigorous policy is necessary."

"It is not enough to sit by and complain about the foolhardy things being done to the discredit of drivers who try to be decent. Take the violator's number and report him to the police. Better still, jump out and publicly threaten to have him arrested. He won't forget the humility of it in a hurry."

"No motorist is justified in remaining disinterested in the telling of a story of speeding. Let the violator know that he is on a par with the conventional lawbreaker and convince him the stigma his act places upon motor- ing will eventually hurt his standing, his business and his freedom in motor- ing."

DRIPPING FROM CRANK CASE

Trouble Has Its Source Usually at Bolt Holes in Oil Pan or a Broken Gasket.

The dripping of oil from the bottom of the crank case or oil pan has its source usually at bolt holes in the oil pan, a cracked or broken gasket between crank case and oil pan or either one of the two main end bearings. Another source is from the valve tappets or plungers, which, if worn, will allow oil to seep to the motor's exterior, finally dripping off the bottom of the motor base. In attempting to remedy this dripping, first tighten the cap screws which secure the oil pan to the motor base. This usually corrects the trouble.

TODD'S AUTO INN

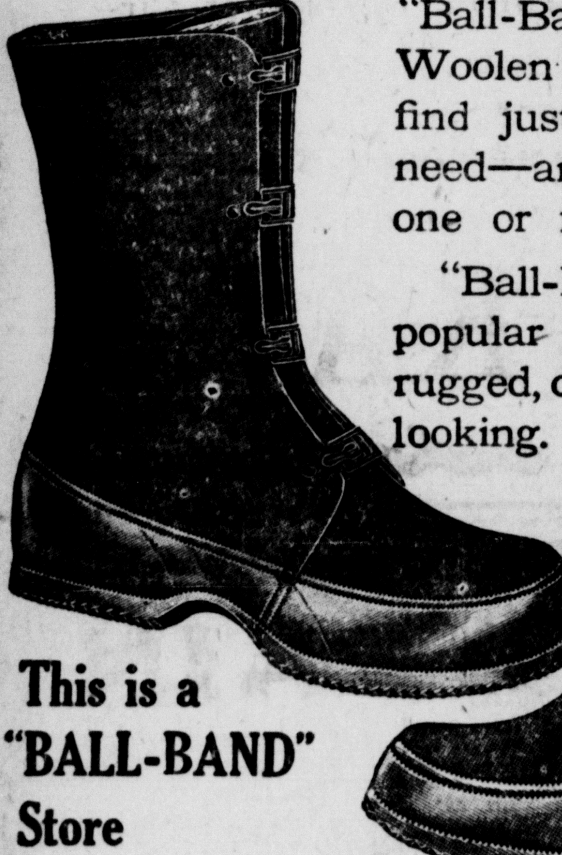

TIMELY INFORMATION

Before you take that long auto trip, better run your car around here and have us look it over. There may be several minor adjustments to be made that will avoid the possibility of a serious accident, while you are away. It won't cost you much and you will feel safer.

FIRST GARAGE EAST OF COURT HOUSE

"BALL-BAND"

Among our fine lot of "Ball-Band" Rubber and Woolen Footwear you can find just the Arctic you need—any size in either one or four-buckle style.

"Ball-Band" Arctics are popular because they are rugged, durable, and good-looking.

This is a "BALL-BAND" Store

We carry "Ball-Band" because among its ten million wearers we have our share among our customers. They buy "Ball-Band" year after year because they know from experience that they get More Days Wear.

SOLDER IS OF GREAT VALUE

In Making Battery Connections Care Should Be Taken That Metal Doesn't Overflow.

When a wire carrying electric current is to be attached to a terminal or to another piece of wire, the common practice is to make the connection, wrap it with tire tape and call it a job. The connection serves very well until corrosion of the parts sets in, when a resistance to passage of the current is set up with increasingly detrimental results.

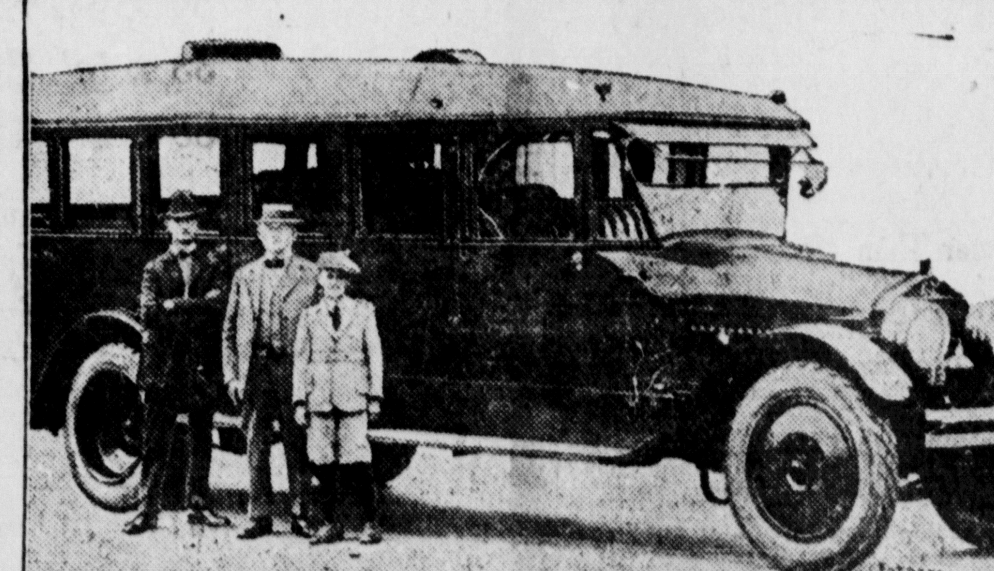

As a matter of fact all connections of this kind should be soldered as soon as they are made. In soldering these parts care should be taken to keep the solder from flowing on any part of the wire except the terminal, as the heat tends to make the wire brittle and likely to break. In doing the work hold the tinned surface of the soldering iron close to the places where the juncture is to be made. Hold the iron steadily in the one place, so that solder flows freely on the connection, and, after completing the job, test with the battery to see that the current flows properly.

PLAN TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Bureau of Standards Officially Recommends Uniform Laws for Headlights.

Believing that hundreds of lives and thousands of automobile accidents may be saved in this country every year by uniformity of laws, the bureau of standards has officially recommended that all states adopt uniform laws regulating automobile headlights.

MOTOR PALACE CONTAINS EVERY CONVENIENCE OF MODERN HOME

In this motor palace, no matter where you are, without the slightest inconvenience, you can have comfortable sleeping berths, shower baths, ample cooking facilities, cracked ice made as you ride, market news and entertainment by radio. Innocent looking panels of mahogany here and there conceal scores of unlooked for appointments. There are wardrobe and linen closets, oil and electric stoves, an ice-making plant, and many other conveniences. The water supply system for the entire coach is provided by a 40-gallon tank, pressure being maintained at all times by means of a pump driven by a power take-off on the transmission. The motor palace is owned by W. K. Kellogg, breakfast food magnate and world traveler. He is shown with his son, Dr. Karl H. Kellogg, and grandson, Jon.

DUTY OF EVERY CAR DRIVER

Keep Machine in Good Repute on Streets and Highways, Says Secretary Fred Caley.

Keeping the motor car in good repute on the streets and highways, according to Fred H. Caley, executive secretary of the National Motorists' association, is the duty of every owner and the basis upon which the continued success of the motor car as a form of safe transportation depends.

"Some motorists need to be educated to a better understanding of their responsibilities, and act upon the advice of the more experienced," says Mr. Caley. "Our rules of safety reach this class satisfactorily, but we must treat the irresponsible motorist differently. Mere words, even the most caustic phrases, do not reach him. A more vigorous policy is necessary.

"It is not enough to sit by and complain about the foolhardy things being done to the discredit of drivers who try to be decent. Take the violator's number and report him to the police. Better still, jump out and publicly threaten to have him arrested. He won't forget the humiliation of it in a hurry.

"No motorist is justified in remaining disinterested in the telling of a story of speeding. Let the violator know that he is on a par with the conventional lawbreaker and convince him the stigma his act places upon motor-ing will eventually hurt his standing, his business and his freedom in motor-ing."

DRIPPING FROM CRANK CASE

Trouble Has Its Source Usually at Bolt Holes in Oil Pan or a Broken Gasket.

The dripping of oil from the bottom of the crank case or oil pan has its source usually at bolt holes in the oil pan, a cracked or broken gasket between crank case and oil pan or either one of the two main end bearings. Another source is from the valve tappets or plungers, which, if worn, will allow oil to seep to the motor's exterior, finally dripping off the bottom of the motor base. In attempting to remedy this dripping, first tighten the cap screws which secure the oil pan to the motor base. This usually corrects the trouble.

OHIO PENSIONERS
Buckeye State Leads With Pennsylvania
a Close Second.
Ohio has more pensioners than any other state in the Union, according to information obtained at the United States pension bureau. At the present time the pension bureau is paying pensions to 510,035 persons and of these 47,771 or about one-eleventh of the total number are in Ohio, Pennsylvania, with 47,764 pensioners, is a close second to Ohio. The other leading states in order are New York, with 39,509 pensioners; Illinois, 33,392; Indiana, 30,595; California, 25,713; Missouri 24,832; Michigan, 20,260; Massachusetts, 20,092. Strange to relate, the state with the smallest number of pensioners is not in the south but in the north. Nevada is at the bottom of the list, with only 433 persons drawing pensions from the government on account of military service. Wyoming, another northern state, is next to the bottom with 878 pensioners.
